Paul Robas, Long Story, 2026, Ink, encaustic and oil on board, 20 x 30 cm

From museum-worthy Old Masters to captivating solo presentations by contemporary art stars, here are the standout gallery booths to see in Regent's Park this season.

Paul Robas at Alice Amati | Frieze London (Artist to Artist Section)

In the fair's must-see Artist-to-Artist section—where established talents handpick emerging voices—rising British painter Louise Giovanelli has nominated emerging art star Paul Robas for a solo stand. Exhibited with Alice Amati, the Vienna-based Romanian artist builds multi-layered works in acrylic and ink that explore themes of memory and perception. Sharing Giovanelli's obsession with surface, light, and subtle psychological tension, Robas's dreamlike, shifting compositions resist simple reading.
